Printed is not woven!

Before making a final choice of pattern, please be sure to compare the illustration in this fabric brochure with an actual fabric sample in the showroom of your local markilux specialist dealer. Depending on the model, awning size and pattern, the awning cover will either be seamless or with transverse or longitudinal seams in a specific symmetrical arrangement starting from the centre of the awning cover.

The most beautiful fabric between heaven and earth.

Our unique fabrics help to create a special ambience

It is the colour and quality of the awning fabric that make the ambience on your patio and in your conservatory special. Colour nuances, patterns and textures succeed in creating that uniquely special effect by virtue of their brightness and hue. As a leading manufacturer of top-quality awning fabrics with 100 years of experience in the manufacture of textiles, markilux offers an unparalleled variety. Among the more than 200 patterns in thematically coordinated colour families, you are bound to find your very own and most beautiful fabric between heaven and earth. When it comes to making your choice, allow yourself to be inspired, enthused, advised by your markilux specialist dealer ...

markilux designer awnings have received a multitude of awards:

markilux design

It is the perfect combination of form and function that turns an awning into a markilux designer awning. In this respect, markilux relies on its long-standing experience in R&D and design.

Self-cleaning effect

Water droplets pick up dirt particles and run off the awning cover taking the dirt with them (the awning must be set at a pitch of at least 14 degrees), ensuring you can enjoy your beautiful fabric for a long time to come.

Bonded awning covers

Panel joints bonded together ultrasonically ensure a consistent, unobtrusive appearance. Their excellent resistance to water, light and fluctuations in temperature ensures that the service life of the cover is extended substantially.

Light and weather resistance and resistance to fading

High-tech yarns dyed right to the core and a high-grade finish developed in house guarantee the most stunning shade in which to relax.

markilux App, Cover Finder and Fabric Sample Shop

markilux develops, manufactures and tests its awning cover fabrics in its own facility in Germany. Find your own personal favourite amongst the more than 200 fabric patterns in the showroom of your markilux specialist dealer, with the markilux AR-App or in the Fabric Sample Shop at markilux.com markilux awning covers. Quality – Made in Germany.

Functionality can be so beautiful

When manufacturing our awning fabrics made from sunsilk and sunvas we leave absolutely nothing to chance. We add a final finishing flourish to the fabric with a special formula developed in house. This finish gives our awning covers incredible longevity and resistance to rain, light and fluctuations in temperature. Certified in accordance with Oeko-Tex standard 100, markilux awning covers are guaranteed free from harmful dyes and chemicals.

What's more, with an Ultraviolet Protection Factor (UPF) of 50+, all solid markilux awning covers made of sunsilk or sunvas offer the highest possible degree of UV protection offered by fabrics. Your skin's own protection factor is enhanced by a factor of more than 50. This allows you to enjoy sunny days for longer, without putting your health at risk.

“Being fully involved, open to new ideas, thinking freely. Making technological advances, consolidating material awareness, fully utilising shape and colour. Treading new ground, creating a vision, making a statement. These are our goals. This is what motivates us.”

The artful art of technology

This innovative markilux printing technology makes the creation of remarkably atypical motifs possible. With smart art markilux is introducing highly unusual fabric patterns – works of art, in fact. A visual highlight for your patio with the charm of artistic creativity. Leaving your “imprint” takes on a whole new meaning.

Impressive from any and every angle

When viewed against the light, the pattern motif is clearly visible on the unprinted underside of the fabric. The printed motif is visible on the side hems of the cover where these have been turned under. A pattern mismatch may be in evidence where the cover panels have been joined.

Solar protection with a view

This sunvas fabric with special perforation technique stands for impressive transparency as well as good light and air permeability.

We recommend transolair be used for the markilux shadeplus, side screens as well as vertical roller blinds and glass canopy awnings.

This perforated fabric allows a view of the outdoors while shielding from prying eyes at the same time. It ensures good air circulation between the cover and the glass. This effectively reduces the build-up of a heat cushion between fabric and glass. The formation of water troughs is minimised.

- | XL | Fabric patterns of the 338 series .. (250 cm fabric width) available as a widely woven fabric for seamless covers up to a drop of 230 cm.
Fabric patterns of the 339 series .. (120 cm fabric width) will be made up with a horizontal seam when used for a shadeplus.
As a result, fabrics with a textured or flecked pattern will take on an appearance different from that of the awning cover, if made from the same fabric.

Ideal for conservatories

Gaps in the warp, woven into the fabric, make this sunsilk fabric permeable to both air and water. The risk of the formation of water troughs in rain showers and the build-up of excessive heat between cover and glass is reduced. The aluminium coating* applied to the series 332.. further reduces solar gain. The weatherproof finish also inhibits the accumulation of dirt and offers excellent water repellency.

* The top side of the material is impregnated with a higher percentage of aluminium and should face upwards/outwards to maximise solar reflection. The aluminium in the coating is visible, especially in the case of light cover patterns and under backlit conditions.

Good to know

For technical reasons, the fabric panels of perfotex awning covers for the markilux 8850 are always stitched together. The covers of all other vertical roller blinds and glass canopy awnings are bonded to one another using a state-of-the-art procedure.

In certain patterns, the FR coating can make the underside of the fabric appear darker. This effect is minimal when the cover is viewed against the light.

A valance is a small decorative piece of fabric suspended from the front profile

It gives your markilux folding-arm awning that classic look (not available in all models / optional in some). markilux has chosen a standard braid that matches every fabric pattern. Should you, however, wish to have an alternative braid colour, please choose one from the colour options shown.

The pattern of the valance always matches that of the cover. It is cut from the same piece of material and runs out symmetrically on both sides. In the case of striped fabrics, the valance shape is matched to the stripes in the material. We cannot guarantee that the pattern repeat of a valance supplied at a later date will match that of the original cover.

Awning covers are industrially manufactured textile products which serve both a functional and a decorative purpose. They are high-tech products that meet strict technical performance criteria. Each production cycle undergoes extensive laboratory tests.

Criteria such as water impermeability, stiffness, dirt and water-repellent properties, resistance to tearing and tear propagation, colour fastness and numerous other characteristics are defined, assessed and guaranteed for each fabric type by the manufacturer.

Although only first-class, quality controlled fabric is used in production, there are limits to the degree of perfection that can be achieved. Small irregularities such as knots, thicker and thinner sections of yarn, isolated yarn breakages as well as certain other idiosyncrasies of awning covers are phenomena that awning owners complain about occasionally, but such characteristics cannot be completely eradicated even with today's technology.

Creases

Creases can appear during the cover manufacturing process and if the fabric has been folded. A dark line may become visible at the crease when viewed against the light, especially in the case of lighter colours. This is because the fibres have become kinked when the fabric was folded (altered light refraction).

Waviness (puckering) near the seam and in the middle of a panel

Puckering can appear along the side hems, near the panel joints and in the centre of a panel.

There is a double layer of fabric at the panel joints. As a result, the layers of fabric are forced to assume different diameters when being rolled up. The tension exerted by the folding arms and the weight of the roller tube and/or front profile can exacerbate this effect. Puckering can also develop if a "water trough" forms during heavy rainfall.

Resistance to rain

Solar protection fabrics are impregnated with a water-repellent finish and, if properly cared for and used at a pitch of at least 14°, remain impervious to water during short, light rainfall.

During prolonged and/or heavy rainfall the awning must not be extended or should be retracted to prevent damage.

If the cover becomes wet, the awning must be extended again at the earliest opportunity once the rain has stopped to allow the fabric to dry and prevent the build-up of mildew, i.e. marking of the fabric.

Side hems

In most cases an active tensioning system keeps the cover almost permanently taut. Although seams and hems provide reinforcement, they also have to withstand the most strain.

When the fabric is being rolled up, the seams and hems lie on top of one another which increases the pressure and tension even more. They are therefore exposed to considerable strain and this can cause them to stretch. As a consequence, the side hems may sag slightly during extension and retraction of the the awning.

How to take proper care of your awning cover

Dust and dirt can best be removed when dry using a soft brush. Remove leaves, twigs and similar debris immediately. Small marks or stains should be removed using water and a commercially accepted, preferably liquid, mild detergent (5% soap solution: water temperature max. 30 degrees). Then, thoroughly rinse the cover off with water.

Detailed instructions for the awning purchaser with all important information regarding operation, care and maintenance are included with every awning delivery.

Printed is not woven!

Before making a final choice of pattern, please be sure to compare the illustration in this fabric brochure with an actual fabric sample in the showroom of your local markilux specialist dealer.

Depending on the model, awning size and pattern, the awning cover will either be seamless or with transverse or longitudinal seams in a specific symmetrical arrangement starting from the centre of the awning cover.

In covers made from striped and printed fabrics, the pattern repeat may not be perfectly matched where the panels have been joined.

Patterns with wider pattern repeats are shown on a scale of approximately 1:10. Those with a narrow pattern repeat and plain fabrics are shown in full size (100%) .
